ART

In the multimedia exhibit TOUCHSTONE, New York artist Rachel Beach uses a variety of media to explore the interplay between image and object, volume and void. The exhibit, incorporating free-standing abstract sculptures, painted symbols, video and large-scale photographs, also challenges viewers to be aware of their own bodies in relation to the objects and the space in the gallery. Sunday, Sept. 25 through Sunday, March 19, 2017.

In a second exhibit at the Visual Arts Center, Santa Fe artist Ted Larsen will create an immersive installation entitled: LINED OUT. Larsen fashions a network of horizontal and linear elements that are attached directly to gallery walls. He uses steel rods covered with salvaged automotive metal, and the individual units combine to make patterns suggestive of Mondrian. Sunday, September 25 through Monday, January 2, 2017.

■ Visual Arts Center of New Jersey, 68 Elm St., Summit. Suggested admission: $5 adults, $3 students/seniors, members free. For additional information, visit artcenternj.org or call 908-273-9121.
